

Hotel Consulting as a Core Element of Sustainable Asset Management

The hospitality sector continues to see a clear structural shift, with an increasing separation between property ownership and operational management. Beyond international hotel chains, today's market is shaped by financial investors, private equity funds, and institutional investors seeking flexible and resilient partnership models. Expert hospitality know-how is essential for high-performing hotel asset management. Our senior consultants support owners and investors in securing economic performance and addressing critical strategic questions:

- Operator Contracts: Are owner and landlord interests optimally protected in the current agreement?
- Operational Potential: Does the operator's financial performance align with the property's true potential?
- Cost Efficiency: Are operational costs, management fees, and hidden expenses appropriate and competitive?
- Benchmarking: How does the hotel's success compare to the broader market and direct competitors?
- Risk Management: Are budget forecasts realistic, and where do potential variances lie?
- Growth Opportunities: Are there untapped revenue streams or cost-saving potentials?
- Future-Proofing: Does investment planning account for current hospitality trends and market shifts?
- Divestment: Is there a clearly defined exit strategy for the asset?

Unlike standard asset management for leased properties—which often focuses on simple controlling—specialized Hotel Asset Management requires deep operational insight. The property's value is directly tied to its earning power and the ability to generate sustainable cash flows.
